Good Works

Good works in so many ways. Like giving time to make a difference in your community. Supporting people who are going through tough times. Stopping to really listen to someone's story. And helping those who feel lost to find a way forward.

For over 160 years, the St Vincent de Paul Society WA has been a champion of good for those in need of support. With Vinnies op shops operating in Perth since 1962, this reach has only grown stronger.

And, while many people associate our name with op shops, our impact goes far deeper than that. Our various services help people put food on the -table, navigate their way through debt, find a safe place to sleep, regain stability and access personalised support. This is all made possible through the power of teamwork, with people coming together to share their time, resources, compassion and skills to give back.

Good works make a difference – and that's why we're here to make them happen.

Our Advocacy in Action

Advocating social justice for the vulnerable has been a core part of our mission for the past 160 years. In late 2025, Vinnies WA joined a host of other organisations in the community services sector to advocate for a coordinated, evidence-based response to child and youth homelessness.

Led by Vinnies WA, Indigo Junction and Mission Australia, the initiative brought together sector expertise, frontline data and the voices of young people with lived experience to identify gaps in the system and develop practical solutions.

This collective work culminated in the launch of the 2026-27 Pre-Budget Submission which called on the WA Government to invest in youth-specific housing and accommodation, prevention and early intervention, greater sector capacity and lived-experience voices.

This marked the start of our journey, and we are committed to continuing our advocacy in this space until we start to see real systemic change.

A Reflection from our State President and CEO

Welcome to the St Vincent de Paul Society WA's 2025–26 Impact Report.

The past year has shown us that the vital work we do is as important as ever.

Cost-of-living pressures, housing insecurity and homelessness continue to affect people and families across our community, with demand for our services remaining high and, in some areas, reaching levels we have not seen before.

The scale of need can feel overwhelming. But this report is not only a story about need. It is a story about what is possible when people come together.

Behind every number in this Impact Report is a person, a family or a community, and an opportunity to make a difference. Our impact is seen not only in the assistance we provide, but in the moments when people are safer, more connected, better able to cope, remain housed or take a step towards a more secure future.

Someone from our community welcomed through the doors of a Vinnies Support Centre and receiving help in a time of crisis. A young person finding connection and a pathway forward. A person experiencing homelessness finding safety and stability. Someone supported on their mental health recovery journey. A family receiving the practical help they need to remain housed.

These are the people behind the numbers. People who are part of our community, each with their own story, circumstances and hopes for the future. They remind us that our Good Works are about more than providing assistance. They are about people standing alongside people, restoring connection and creating hope.

This is community helping community. And, in so many ways, it is community healing community.

None of this happens alone. Across Western Australia, our Members, Staff and Volunteers are at the heart of our Good Works, alongside our committed donors, partners, supporters and the wider community. Together, we respond to immediate need and work towards lasting change.

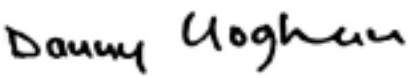

The year has been an important one for our organisation as we look to the future. Guided by our Strategic Plan 2026–2029, we are building on what we have learned and strengthening the way we deliver our work, with a focus on our people, our impact, our sustainability and our identity.

Our reconciliation journey is an important part of this commitment, particularly given the significant number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who turn to our services for support. As we continue to embed our Reconciliation Action Plan, we are challenged to keep listening, learning and building culturally safe and respectful relationships.

This report reminds us that change is possible when we choose to stand alongside one another. Every act of kindness, every person welcomed, every family supported and every pathway opened contributes to a stronger, more resilient and connected community.

We are deeply grateful to everyone who has contributed throughout the year. Together, we will continue to help, connect and care, walking alongside Western Australians experiencing hardship, creating pathways to safety, stability and hope, and working always towards a more just and compassionate society.

With gratitude,

Danny Cloghan (State President) and

Ann Curran (CEO)

Our Reconciliation Journey

As a Society, we envision an Australia where the perspectives, languages, philosophies, and cultures of Aboriginal peoples are woven into the fabric of our institutions, communities, and the daily lives of all Australians.

In 2025-26, we continued to bring our Innovate Reconciliation Action Plan to life, strengthening relationships with Aboriginal peoples, Elders, organisations and communities across WA.

We also grew our partnerships in key First Nations events, including National Reconciliation Week and NAIDOC Week, creating more opportunities for learning, reflection and connection among our Members, Volunteers and Staff.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples are significantly represented across our services.

This highlights the important role our services play in supporting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people experiencing homelessness, housing insecurity and financial hardship.

It also reinforces why our Reconciliation Action Plan is so pivotal to our organisation in guiding us to strengthen relationships, deepen cultural understanding and embed culturally safe and respectful practices in our approach.

Through our Reconciliation journey, our focus remains on building cultural safety, truth-telling and meaningful, lasting change.

Community Engagement Services bring Good Works to life every day across WA. Through our Member, Emergency Relief, Financial Counselling and Youth Engagement programs, we provide practical assistance, connection and pathways forward for people experiencing hardship.

Our Members

Our Members, also known as Vincentians, are the everyday unsung heroes building the connections, trust and hope that has underpinned our mission for the past 160 years. From delivering urgent essentials to people at home, providing companionship or offering a 'helping hand up' at our Support Centres and Emergency Relief locations, our Members personify our Good Works.

> "Sometimes people just need someone to talk to, and someone who genuinely cares. Even a small act of kindness can make a big difference."
>
> - Sabine, Member, Kelmscott Community Kitchen

Sabine's story

Every week for the past year, Sabine has been lending a helping hand at our Kelmscott Community Kitchen.

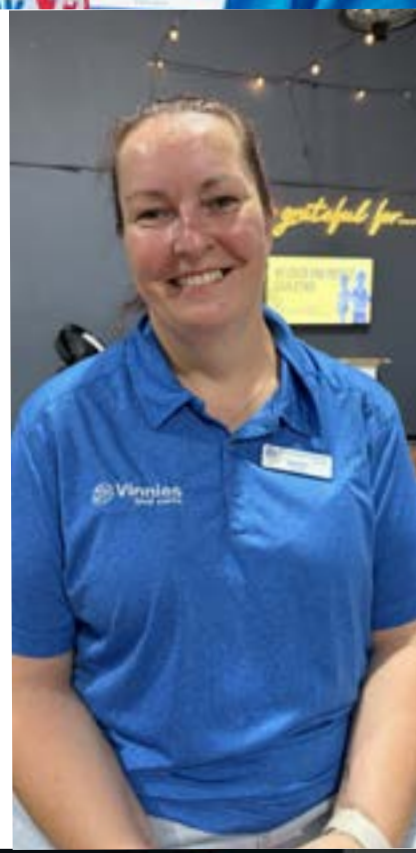

Whether she's prepping ingredients in the kitchen, serving meals or chatting with diners, Sabine is among a handful of dedicated Members who help create the warm atmosphere that makes this place so special.

But her kindness doesn't stop there. Beyond volunteering in the Community Kitchen, Sabine also spends time delivering cooked meals to people experiencing homelessness in the Armadale area.

While it can sometimes be difficult witnessing the challenges faced by people doing it tough, Sabine says the experience reminds her how important kindness and human connection can be.

"Sometimes people just need someone to talk to, and someone who genuinely cares," Sabine said. "Even a small act of kindness can make a big difference."

Having recently completed her Diploma of Community Services, Sabine now wants to draw from her 'good works' at the Kelmscott Kitchen to continue making a difference in her professional life.

Emergency Relief

Our Emergency Relief program provides immediate assistance to those experiencing deep hardship, in the form of food, clothing and support with paying bills. This crucial service is delivered by our Members, who not only help to meet urgent needs but also offer referrals, advocacy and companionship where required.

Peggy's story

Starting fresh in a new country is never easy, as Thornlie couple Peggy and Stephane discovered.

Relocating to Perth from their home country of Mauritius, the couple faced enormous challenges that required them to move in with relatives and share a single room with their young daughter.

"We believed we would be able to find work quickly and build a new life," Peggy recalled.

"Unfortunately, things didn't turn out the way we expected."

Both on student visas, the couple could only work limited hours, which made it difficult to save money or secure a home big enough to accommodate their family of five.

This meant that the couple's two sons had to remain in Mauritius with their grandparents for two and a half years while they tried to create a stable life in WA.

"The biggest sacrifice was leaving our two boys in Mauritius, for what we initially thought would be a short separation," said Peggy.

"Not knowing when we would be together again was heartbreaking."

"Despite everything, we kept going because we believed that one day we would be reunited as a family."

But hope was restored for Peggy and her family when they learned about Vinnies' Emergency Relief services through a Member, Trish, at her local church.

Through Vinnies' Emergency Relief support, the family could access regular food assistance and shop vouchers, which helped ease some of the financial pressure.

After years of sacrifice and uncertainty, Peggy and Stephane recently secured sponsorship arrangements that allow them to work more hours, enabling them to secure their first rental home.

To help the family settle into their new chapter, Vinnies also provided furniture, bedding and household essentials.

For Peggy, the support she received from Vinnies not only gave her a chance to bring her family back together under one roof but also filled her with hope.

"Vinnies helped us through one of the darkest periods of our lives," Peggy said.

"Today, our children are here with us in Australia and our family is together again. I will always be grateful for the support and kindness we received."

Our Impact across WA

Behind every shaded area are individuals and families who have turned to us in a time of need, and the Members, Volunteers and Staff who have been there to offer practical assistance with dignity, hope and respect.

Through strong partnerships with St Patrick's Community Support Centre, Centacare Geraldton, Regional Alliance Network, Centacare Broome, Val and Cath's Crafty Kitchen and Jungarni Jutiya Indigenous Corporation, we are able to extend our services to support a wide range of communities across WA.

Specialist Community Services

Across our state, homelessness, housing insecurity and complex mental health challenges continue to place significant pressure on individuals, families and the services supporting them.

Through our Specialist Community Services teams, we provide targeted, person-centred support for people who may be facing some of the most difficult and complex circumstances in their lives.

Tom Fisher House

Tom Fisher House is an intensive intervention service for people aged 18 and over who are experiencing long-term homelessness. The service provides support to people facing complex challenges, with few barriers to entry.

Josh's* story

A veteran who served in the Australian Army, Josh came to Tom Fisher House after experiencing homelessness while struggling to secure a rental.

"When you're homeless, you feel shunned," the 32-year-old said.

"But at Tom Fisher House, there's no judgement. If there were more places like this, Australia would be better for it."

Thanks to Tom Fisher House, Josh was referred to the Veterans Transition Centre, where he now has a safe place to call home and the support he needed to get his life back on track.

Wandjoo Bidi

Wandjoo Bidi is our low barrier supported accommodation service for people experiencing homelessness and rough sleeping. Run by Vinnies WA in partnership with the Department of Communities, Wandjoo Bidi provides tailored support in a welcoming environment that encourages dignity, safety and belonging.

Sarah's* story

When Sarah was diagnosed with breast cancer, being homeless meant she was unable to undergo chemotherapy treatment.

Following her cancer diagnosis, Sarah was under immense housing stress while managing multiple health issues, leaving her with no other choice but to live in her car.

It wasn't until Sarah and her husband secured a room at Wandjoo Bidi that they were able to turn their lives around.

"It felt like we finally had a place that was our own," she said.

"I didn't realise at the time what it was like to have a place to call home."

Thanks to wraparound support from Wandjoo Bidi staff and her case workers, Sarah was able to undergo treatment, which she has successfully completed.

"We had the attitude of 'We're going to get through this, we'll find a way, we've got to get through it' – and because of Wandjoo Bidi, we did," she said.

Ben's* story

After his father passed away, and with no family to turn to, Ben found himself homeless at the age of 21.

"It's scary. You don't know if you're going to be sleeping on the street, or on someone's couch. You just want to be normal," he said.

"When I went to Passages for help, they supported me to find short-term accommodation and were there as a foundation to help me grow and be better."

Through Compass, a youth focused, strength based program which provides intensive case management to empower young people to build confidence, develop life skills and work towards independence, Ben achieved an important milestone – gaining his forklift licence and taking a step closer to employment.

"They really provided the stepping stones to help me get out of a bad place," he said.

Mental Health Service

Grounded in trauma-informed care, our Mental Health Service empowers people to make informed choices and take positive steps in their recovery journey.

At the heart of this service is The Village, a welcoming 28-unit community that provides 24-hour support in an environment that fosters recovery, independence and connection. Supporting adults aged 18 and above, we work closely with each consumer to provide personalised one-on-one support.

Shaun's* story

Shaun never imagined he would be homeless after emigrating from India to Australia in 2008.

Following a relationship breakdown, Shaun lost his apartment and was forced to sleep rough on the Perth streets.

"It was a very stressful, challenging and difficult time in my life," he said.

"When I was homeless, I developed anxiety and depression."

A beacon of hope arrived in 2023, when Shaun was referred to Wandjoo Bidi, Vinnies WA's low-barrier supported accommodation service.

It was the first time in nearly a year that the 46-year-old had a safe place to stay so he could start rebuilding his life.

But when his mental health needs became more complex, Shaun transitioned to Vinnies Mental Health Service, The Village, in October 2025, where he could access 24-hour care.

"The Village is a good community. I feel very supported by the staff there. I feel like they genuinely care," he said.

Shaun now volunteers in The Village kitchen a few days a week, hoping to gain hospitality experience to secure a job. He has also applied for public housing.

"I want to get my life back on track," he said.

"But I now have hope for my future. I also want to save up enough money to go back to India and see my Mum."

Peter's story

As one of the familiar faces behind the counter at Vinnies' Canning Vale Retail Shop, it comes as no surprise that Volunteer Peter has become a favourite among staff and customers.

Having retired from a three-decade teaching career nearly four years ago, it was Peter's wife who encouraged him to find a hobby of sorts to keep him busy.

For the past four years, the fit and healthy 82-year-old has been volunteering at his local Vinnies shop twice a week.

While he enjoys the social element of interacting with customers and his fellow volunteers, it was also a good excuse for Peter to get out of the house for a few hours each week.

"It keeps you active and engaged, and you know you're doing something worthwhile," Peter said.

Highly regarded by fellow volunteers and shop manager Harry Singh, Peter's connection to the organisation has come back full circle.

"Many years ago, I was involved in the distribution of food for the Langford Conference,"

Thanks to dedicated volunteers like Peter, Vinnies is able to keep its shop doors open to customers, including people in need.
