MEET VINCE

Vince wants to be remembered as “a good bloke”

Vince shares more than a name with St Vincent de Paul Society Qld (Vinnies Qld), he also believes in doing good works. Vince has been donating to Vinnies Qld for over 30 years, and has decided to leave a gift in his Will because, as he says, “It will be spent in the right way. That’s all I care about.”

“Vinnies is my go-to to help people when something bad happens. When there are bushfires for example, I try to wait until Vinnies asks me for money so I can give to them because I trust them. Vinnies is my conduit to things that go wrong in life.”

When Vince was asked how he wishes to be remembered, he simply said, “The old Australian saying is ‘He was a good bloke. I don’t want any more than that’.”

“Vinnies is helping people with drug addictions, alcohol addictions, and looking after the homeless. Giving women who are abused a place to stay. Providing meals and shelter. Vinnies is my favourite charity.” - Vince

MEET MARION

Marion wants to keep up her good work even when she's gone

Following in the footsteps of her father, Marion is a long-time supporter of Vinnies Qld and a strong advocate for helping people experiencing homelessness. She believes in doing good works. She gives regular gifts to help people in need and has decided to leave a gift in her Will because, as she says:

"I often think when I put my head on the pillow at night, there are so many people that haven't got a bed to sleep in, using newspaper for blankets. I want my bequest to help those experiencing homelessness."

Her late husband also left a gift in his Will, and his kindness inspired her to do the same. Marion is grateful for the life she's had, sharing, "I always think I'm lucky to have a bed to sleep in," and wishes to continue helping people in need long after she's gone.

"You can always trust that your donations go to those who need them most with Vinnies." - Marion
